

Lead Safe Baltimore County

What is Lead Safe Baltimore County?

A grant program designed to reduce lead hazards in homes in the targeted Community Conservation areas through a comprehensive plan of lead hazard reduction, economic development, job training, outreach, and education.

This program will dramatically reduce the risk of lead poisoning in the homes of young children within the targeted communities. The long-term effects of lead in a child can be severe. They include learning disabilities, decreased growth, hyperactivity, impaired hearing, and even brain damage. The good news is that there are simple things you can do to help protect your family including utilizing this new program.
